MEMORANDUM OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Ministry of Information and Communications has formulated the Bill herein with a view to enhancing access to information held by Government Ministries and other public authorities. The Bill recognizes access to information as a right bestowed on the Kenyan people, and seeks to promote proactive publication, dissemination and access to information by the Kenyan public in the furtherance of this right. It also spells out the mechanisms for ensuring public access to information, as well as the factors that may hinder the right to this access. The Bill is borne of the realization that access to information held by the Government and public institutions is crucial for the promotion of democracy and good governance.

Part I of the Bill contains preliminary provisions.

Part II contains provisions on the establishment, powers and function of the Kenya Freedom of Information Commission, which shall enjoy the status of a body corporate with all the attributes pertaining thereto. Membership of the Commission is provided for in clause 9. Clause 6 thereof lays down the functions of the Commission while the objects and principles guiding the Commission in the discharge of its functions are set out in clause 7. Clause 8 confers the Commission with independence from the Government and other entities, and requires the Commission to carry out its mandate without any political bias or interference. Clause 10 lays down the elaborate procedures for appointment of commissioners while clause 18 provides for the appointment of Secretary to the Commission.

Part III contains provisions on the right of access to information. Clause 26 accords every person the right to access information in the domain of a public authority while clause 27 contains provisions on information which is exempted from disclosure to the public. Clause 28 obliges a public authority to publish in the public interest information in its possession (proactive disclosure).

Part IV contains provisions on access to information. Clauses 29 and 30 details the manner in which an application for information is to be made and the manner in which such an application is to be processed. Clause 31 provides for the transfer of an application for information from one public authority to another when it becomes apparent that the information applied for is not in the domain of the public authority to which the application is initially made but is in the possession of another authority.

Clause 33 provides for rejection of an application for information. Clause 34 provides that no fee will be levied in respect of information applied for as a general rule, but a public authority is allowed to levy some fee to cater for incidental cost of availing the information applied for, for example, cost of making and supplying copies to an applicant. Under clause 35, it is provided that a person can make an application to a public authority to correct inaccurate personal information in its possession regarding such person .

Part V contains provisions on internal review of decisions made by a public authority with clause 36 thereof providing for instances in which an application for such review can be made. The manner of making such application is laid down in clause 37 and communication of a decision thereon is to be made in the manner detailed in clause 39

Part VI contains financial provisions with clause 40 thereof setting out the sources of funds of the Commission. Clause 42 provides for the preparation of the annual estimates of the Commission and the details to be contained in the estimates while clause 43 provides for the auditing of the accounts of the Commission by the Controller and Auditor General or an auditor appointed thereunder.

Part VII contains miscellaneous provisions and clause 45 thereof imposes an obligation on the Commission to prepare annual reports on its functions for the laying before the National Assembly. Similarly, public authorities are obliged, under clause 46 to prepare and submit to the Commission reports on various aspects of access to information. Clause 47 accords protection to a person making disclosure of information in the public interest while clause 48 obliges public authorities to keep their records in a manner that facilitates the right of access to information. Clause 50 provides for various offences and penalties while clause 52 empowers the Minister to make regulation, in consultation with the Commission, for the better carrying into effect the provisions of the Bill once enacted into law.

The enactment of this Bill will occasion additional expenditure of public funds to be provided through the estimates.

Dated the....., 2012.

SAMUEL POGISHO,
Minister for Information and Communications
